

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

PUBLISHED BY THE DISPATCH PUBLISHING CO.
JAMES PETERSON, President.
(Entered at the Post Office at St. Louis, Mo., as second-class matter.)

TERMS OF THE DAILY.
One year, postage paid..... $9.00
Six months..... 4.50
Three months..... 2.25
One month..... .65
By the week delivered by carrier..... 15
Subscribers who fail to receive their paper regularly will confer a favor upon us by reporting the same to this office by postal card.

THE WEEKLY.
One year, postage paid..... $1.00
Six months..... .50
All business or news letters or telegrams should be addressed to
POST-DISPATCH,
515 and 517 Market street.

TWELVE PAGES.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1885.
The daily average number of copies of the Post-Dispatch delivered by carriers in the city of St. Louis and suburbs during the week ending Saturday, April 4, was 20,703. This does not include sales to newsboys and dealers, and it does not include our country circulation in more than 400 important cities and towns of the West.

As we remarked before, our Bartholdi Pedestal Fund is a success.

The World yesterday turned its twenty-thousandth corner in the subscription for the Bartholdi Pedestal.

Blood will tell. We expect the French blood in St. Louis will tell volumes in favor of the Bartholdi Pedestal Fund.

The list of subscriptions to the Bartholdi Pedestal Fund from the great drug house of RICHMOND & CO. is a daisy. It decorates our local report.

There are two sides to the Bartholdi Pedestal business. All generous and patriotic minds are on one side. Only the snarling and curish Republic is on the other side.

ST. LOUIS is getting to be well known abroad as the city that has taken hold of the completion of the Bartholdi monument, and such a reputation is of immense value.

The Russian Government is distressed over the impossibility of communicating with KOMAROFF so as to hear his account of the recent battle. There is a suspicion that the Russian Government has stuffed cotton in its ear.

THE POST-DISPATCH is now established as the organ of the French population of St. Louis. In our effort to secure the completion of the pedestal for the Bartholdi statue they recognize a tribute to their feelings and desires which they could expect from no other paper.

We do not expect any direct contribution to the pedestal fund from the Republic, but we are promised an indirect contribution of considerable value. The proprietor of a bar room just around the corner from the Republic office has promised to contribute each day one per cent of the amount taken in across the bar for the drinks of the Colonels, and thus will their pleasant voices be turned to whips to lash them.

Our esteemed contemporary, Le Patriote, will open a subscription among its readers for the benefit of the Bartholdi pedestal. We have frequently had occasion to admire the patriotic spirit of Le Patriote, and of its distinguished editor, M. SEVENOR, and the promptness with which it lends its support to a movement of this kind is only in keeping with its high and honorable record.

As RIZZI's half-breeds are the connecting link between the wild tribes and the civilized people of the Northwest, his half-breed rebellion will have to bear the responsibility and the odium of all the resulting massacres. It will afford some savage bands a coveted opportunity to go to war on their own account, and may bring him allies he cannot control and does not want. A civilized and educated man, acting as the leader of a really aggrieved people, cannot be placed in a more painful situation than he now occupies. Without Indian cooperation he must fail, and with it he becomes responsible for such horrible massacres as that at Frog Lake.

A HOLY Alliance of Emperors or a Triumvirate of Imperial dynasties is dimly foreshadowed in the announcement that Germany and Austria will support Russia in the position that the establishment of an Afghan picket post across the river was an advance justifying the Russian attack. That affectionate meeting of the three Emperors in Poland was not the only indication they have given of a disposition to stand together and act under mutual advisement as against the more popular Government of Europe in the settlement of the Eastern question. When the Russian army was last in striking distance of Constantinople, it was the apparition of a British fleet in the Dardanelles, and not any protest from Germany or Austria, that saved the Ottoman capital and stopped the partition of the Empire.

DEMOCRATS will make a mistake if they object to the action of the Republican Committee looking towards an investigation of the revision of the voting lists. That revision was in the hands of the Democrats, and if they are conscious that it will bear investigation they should challenge scrutiny for their own vindication. They are as much interested as Republicans in having elections fairly conducted. In the present case they are more interested than Republicans are in having the conduct of the recent election tested by a fair and full scrutiny. The erasure of 12,000 names in the last three years may not look suspicious, considering the number of deaths and removals in a voting list of over 50,000 names, but a revision of over 7,000 names between the general election of November and the municipal election of April is calculated to shake confidence to some extent. Not only the voting but the registration is a standing disgrace to the city and pretensions of St. Louis, and the whole city ought to kick vigorously against any reduction of the voting lists which suggests a suspicion of an unlawful disfranchisement or looks like an attempt to prevent a full registration and a full vote. The Owens seems to be on the party which had charge of the revision in this instance, and it should court the proposed investigation.

The effect of the war news on the markets during the week shows how anticipation of a business recovery tends to bring it about. But, war or no war, the situation in other respects tends to better prices, insuring renewed business activity. The falling off in imports for several years past, and the increasing balance of trade in our favor, show that we have been increasing, rather than exhausting, our means. The imports at New York for the past quarter amounted to $85,000,000, against $115,000,000 for the first quarter of 1884, $119,000,000 for the first quarter of 1883, and $123,000,000 for the first quarter of 1882. During the past quarter our exports from the same port were $100,000,000 in excess of the same quarter last year. In January and February there were exported over 14,000,000 bushels of corn, over 16,000,000 bushels of wheat and over 3,000,000 barrels of flour, larger shipments of other staples than were ever before made in those two months. Corn, especially, is going abroad in larger quantities than at any time before in the past four years. The idea that the great surplus of last year's war crops would rot on our hands for want of foreign demand has been dispelled, and all reports from the winter wheat crop make it pretty sure that better prices must prevail for all we have to spare, or no war. This means money for the farmer's pocket, enabling him to pay his bills and buy more from the merchant and the manufacturer, and that means a surfeit from over-production, an end of stunted consumption, and a renewal of demand and of industrial activity in meeting it.

April 11, 1885.
The authority given to E. J. Smith, traveling agent, to collect monies and solicit subscriptions, is hereby revoked. His connection with this paper ceases to-day.
-G. KAPFNER,
Business Manager.

FOREIGN NOTES.
The week closes with a very cheerful prospect of an Anglo-Russian war; a strong probability instead of the mere possibility of seven days ago. This change in the situation has been brought about, not by a sharp difference of opinion between the diplomatic agents of the two governments, but by a sharper discussion of words in the very territory whose ownership diplomacy was expected to settle. Just that event has occurred which the most intelligent observers had anticipated as likely to bring about the final decision as to the ownership of the Pamirs, a fight between the Russian and Afghan troops. From the scanty facts thus far obtained, there is little or no doubt that the burden of responsibility for this collision rests upon the Russians. They may not have fired the first shot, but by pushing their outpost into territory which the Afghans claim, and which unquestionably belongs to them, they provoked attack—must have expected it, and were evidently prepared to meet it. Under such circumstances to call the Afghans aggressors is both ridiculous and impudent. As well call aggressor the man who resists and assaults the burglar breaking into his house. Moreover, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that the Russian troops were stationed near the valley of the Pamirs which has been accomplished, that General Komaroff was acting under secret instructions from St. Petersburg, and that he deliberately precipitated the conflict which is likely to transfer the case from court to camp—from peaceful negotiation to the arbitrament of arms.

But be this as it may, the time for shilly-shallying is past, and there will now be a square battle-ground or a square knock-down. Russia must either force its way to the Pamirs, or it must retreat, and the action of Komaroff, or the consequences of refusal to the shape of war with England. English public sentiment is unanimous on this point. The tone of the leading journals, the expressions of popular feeling in London and elsewhere, the questions and answers in the House of Commons, and the general atmosphere of the country all indicate that compromise is at an end, and that Russia must either "play or pay," and decide at once which she will do. Meanwhile, if the British Government is not even ordinarily lenient, it must be occupied and fortified with the latter possible delay. This should have been done before, for if Russia really means war a Russian force may now be in possession of the "Key of India," thereby cutting off England's trade to the East, and thus making it impossible for her to continue her position. The offensive and defensive alliance which Lord Dufferin has arranged with the Amir of Afghanistan was not effected an instant too soon; though it is not improbable that the current of this alliance hastened the movements which led to the battle of Kandahar. A few days, perhaps a few hours, will tell whether that battle was the beginning of a great Asiatic and European war, or only a trifling accident which diplomatic skill can bridge over.

Affairs in the Sudan are dwarfed into insignificance by the threatening outlook in Afghanistan. Gen. Graham has done nothing to redeem his badly damaged reputation, and Lord and Lady Wolseley have been sent to supersede him. The Wolseleys will do no more than Graham has done, so far as opening the road from Suakin to Berber is concerned. Indeed that he is practically abandoned for the present, and may never be resumed. The sober second thought of England is gradually indoring the truth of the recent remark of ex-Khedive Ismail: "The British are not to be trusted. They are able to gather, cannot conquer and hold the Sudan." In event of war with Russia, the larger portion, if not the whole of the British force, will be withdrawn for more important service in other quarters, and Italy may then add the Sudan to her elephant to her Masowah menagerie. If that war should be avoided, the Wolseleys may be allowed to skirmish around for a few months, then sent to join the army in the East, and the Sudan will be left to the hands of the British force, and if Italy tries the experiment when England has abandoned it, she will get a much needed lesson on the same subject. The Sudan will not tolerate any such traitors. The Sudan will not tolerate any such traitors. The Sudan will not tolerate any such traitors.

The Tribune says: "The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a state of readiness to meet the worst. The Russian and English newspapers are all anxious for war. It does not require any very close attention to the press to make the use of the word 'war' in the office and on the paper. While there is only a faint probability that war can be averted, the consequences are so frightful, that it is of all times when the public mind should be kept in a

our want co

They are never so full as to refuse a call.

$175 At $11 per month, no interest, will buy a fine
27 D. J. KEISELHORST, 1111 Olive st.
UPON SALE—Piano. Call at No. 3424 Elliott av. wd

MY intention is, and has been, to do a strictly legitimale, honorable business, to make no misrepresentation about my stock, and to sell at the lowest price consistent with an honest profit. Miller, Guido, Ballets and second-hand and second-line pianos always on hand. Cash or month; no interest. J. A. KEISELHORST, 1111 Olive st. 27

BANJO AND GUITAR. H. J. Label teacher, 1808 Carr st.; agent for S. S. Stewart's fine banjos. 467

BHSE PHNOS

Having secured the agency of these justly celebrated pianos, and, by the way, "spot cash," I am enabled to make prices never heard of before.

J. A. KIRSCHLORST, 1111 Olive st.

THE RAHNSON PIANOS have become famous as a most remarkably short time. Musicians and critics pronounce them the best in the market, as being of fine music and sustaining qualities of tone and promptness of touch. The price is lower than any other first-class piano, and piano contractors should not fail to examine the Piano Factories, 721 and 723 Leclaire st. Factory and warehouse 7721 and 7723 Leclaire av. (Market st.) Old pianos in exchange; pianos tuned and repaired.

FOR SALE—A good organ, for $35, at 1500 S. Broadway, third floor. a27

360 In monthly payments will buy a good piano at J. A. KRISSELHUBER, 1111 Olive st. a27

34 PER MONTH will rent first-class piano at Koerber's, 1103 Olive. a27

FOR SALE—Handsome case, 7½-octave piano; entirely new, owner having no use for it; will sell cheap. Ad. 354, this office. a27

MR. HURSCH BASSETTI receives callers inclusively on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 2 to 7 p. m. at music rooms, 1750 Wash. st. (so called Carr piano). a27

MUSIC TEACHER—German lady wishes a few more

STEINKUEHLER'S ORCHESTRA.
Lodges, societies, clubs and private parties wishing to give first-class music for concert, receptions, balls, parties, etc., at reasonable prices leave orders at Balmer & Seiber's Music Store, or at residence, 1509 Franklin av. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Violin instruments on hand, on rental or purchase. 27

WEBER

Knives are known to be the best in the world. Western Supply depot at H. Koerber's, 1108 Olive street.

NOR SALE—Cheap, a handsome organ for $35; and a marble-top dressing-case suite for $25. Call at 328 N. 1st. m27

---

HOUSES, ROOMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED—A small family to rent part of a medium-sized house by the 15th. Ad. O 36, this office. $2

WANTED—By a small family, unfurnished rooms, first floor, east of 23d st., and convenient to the park; all cars; state price. O 38, this office. $21

WANTED—3 rooms and kitchen on the 1st floor, by a police officer with a small family. Address No. 819 12th st. $21

WANTED—10 room house, central, $40 to $50; give price, full description. Ad. J 38, this office. $21

WANTED—Private rooms; no references asked; northern or southern part of city preferred. E 36, this office. $21

WANTED—A small family to rent part of a medium-sized house by the 15th. Ad. O 36, this office. $2

WANTED—By a small family, unfurnished rooms, first floor, east of 23d st., and convenient to the park; all cars; state price. O 38, this office. $21

WANTED—3 rooms and kitchen on the 1st floor, by a police officer with a small family. Address No. 819 12th st. $21

WANTED—10 room house, central, $40 to $50; give price, full description. Ad. J 38, this office. $21

WANTED—Private rooms; no references asked; northern or southern part of city preferred. E 36, this office. $21

WANTED—A family of two desire part of nice home with refined family of adults, where use of good food and lessons will be taken as part payment; references. A.D. 57, this office. $21

WANTED—A family of two desire to rent an 8 or 10 room house, bed. 21st and 34th, Clark av. and Olive with a small, refined family of adults. Only responsible interested in keeping up a nice home need references. A.D. 57, this office. $21

WANTED—Plaster for 2nd floor, 1030mas must have private entrance, would not object to small house must be reasonable. M 82, this office. wdi

WANTED—Four to 5 large rooms in a new house, 1st floor, with hall, in a respectable neighborhood near to street cars, by a small family of adults. Ad. R., 1929 Herbert st. s21

REMOVALS.

REMOVAL.

E. GREEFF

REAL ESTATE AGENT, has removed his office to 800 Chestnut St.
 are he will be pleased to see his friends, patrons, and all parties desiring anything pertaining to Real Estate or Loans. 85

---

Nose and Throat.

ATARRH Permanently cured by a new in. eth od of treatment, which eradicates cause from the system. Best of references and testi-nials. Consultation and examination without charge.

 W. R. Robb, 1502 Olive st. 35

---

PERSONAL SUNDRIES.

---

FROM a circus tent to a parlor match
 All are put in the wants of the POST-DISPATCH.

---

Ingalls' Boom, Page 8

200 PER DOZ.—Parsons' guarantees entire satisfaction in style, finish and quality—made in St. Louis. 1407 Market st. $16

PERSONAL.—Note the fact that I am making crayons and pastel portraits at lower rates and in better style than ever possible before. My patrons should give orders before the autumn rush commences. J. A. Holten, 920 and 922 Olive st.

KNIGHT BROS.,
S. E. Cor. 5th and Olive sts.
3rd floor.
Patent Lawyers, Solicitors, and

Plate and Repair Silver-Plated

Ice, Ice pichers, Casters, Cake baskets, Spoons, Forks, can be replated and made, practically, as good as new reasonable cost. E. M. Watworth & Co., manufacturers of fine electro plate, Salesroom, 612 Olive st. 74

ADAME BLANK of New Orleans can be consulted at 1515 Poydras St. He knows three different languages; reveals secrets; detects thieves; unveils the future; brings separated lovers, causes speedy marriages, stolen articles recovered; is guaranteed; only ladies admitted. 474

COONELL, artist and photographer. Life-size crayons, 2-3. Studio, 2316 Morgan st. 474

ADIES expecting to be confined can have first-class accommodations and nursing by an experienced lady by addressing A. S. this office; correspondence strictly confidential. 51

RS. WILCOX, trustee fortuna-tele, 502 N. 15th st., bet. St. Charles and Washington av. can be consulted on matters of love, business and matrimony; supplier of brooches, buttons and jewelry; orders filled promptly. 52

AWT-OFF clothing boud. by A. Barnett, 519 Locust
st. Sent postal card. 74

Ll. your cast-off clothing to N. Jacobs. Address postal card, 515 Locust st. 74

EDUCATIONAL.

WANTED—Immediately, young ladies for our summer session to learn shorthand with type writing. Manumission; one tuition. Jones' Commercial College, 1 Broadway. $20

ANKLIN INSTITUTE—Select school for boys. Granite Building, Fourth and Market. 29

ARTIN'S Shorthand and Type-writing College, 613 Broadway, N. Y. City. Published 1874. Trial free.

ARNES & HAYWARD'S Shorthand, Telegraph and Business College, 140 Nassau St., N. Y. City.

WANTED-TO EXCHANGE.

WANTED-To exchange a peddling wagon for a light spring wagon. Ap. 110 N. 11th st. 134

FOR RENT-ROOMS.

SIXTEENTH ST.-Two nice front rooms on 3d floor. Apply on premises. H. Powers. 13

N. EIGHTH ST.-2 unfurnished rooms for rent. 413

3 S. SIXTEENTH ST.—Neatly furnished hall-room, with bath. s13

3 S. FOURTEENTH ST.—One hall room. s13

3 S. SIXTEENTH ST.—Large fur. front room; also one single room. s13

3 S. JEFFERSON AV.—Nicely furnished room suitable for two gentlemen; terms reasonable.

3 S. SIXTEENTH ST.—Neatly furnished rooms; private family. 50 and 60 per month. s13

3 S. TWELFTH ST.—Nicely furnished front or back room; single or 2d rate. m13

8
K. HAYDEN ST. - Fur. rooms 2d floor; quite dry.
4 CHERRY ST. - 3 or 4 rooms on 2d floor, with bath and closet and elevator for coal.
KIMBLEY & CO., 700 Pine St.

FOR RENT
FOR
one front, 3-room du CARR
REAL E
FOR RENT—3 room h

OR RENT—Desirable
of Stoddard addition stable; $27 50. Ka
OR RENT—One 6-r house, Nos. 5431 and repair; rent $12 and
OR RENT OR SALE
large brick stable, p
very desirable p
y to owner. No. 1819
N. SIXTEEN room house; r

227 MISSOURI rooms, bath less. $14

419 BUENA hall, gas, b
laundry, etc.; $
Linn st., house of Lynch st., house
S. Eighth st., ho
A

S. Third st., 3 room
S. Third st., 2 room
Missouri av., 4 room
Missouri av., 4 room

8. Third st., 2 rooms
Missouri av., 3 rooms
Columbus st., 2 rooms

602 N. TENTH fect order; s he door. Apply ne

708 LOCUST
Chestnut st
lans. s14

716 STODDARD or Strauss,

730 CLARK A

36 COOK AV.-side entrance month; key at 3728 Cook

RY CH

Washington av.-10 large side yard, in one

N. Compton av.—1
N. 30th st.—7-room
N. 19th st.—8-room b
R RENT—Choice d
3371 Lindell av., 2-st
Arsenal st., 9 room
Sheridan av., 9 room
S. Compton av., 7 ro
Oregon av., 4 room
Olive st., 3-story, 11
Real

DW
26 N. NINTH : good order;
Walnut st., 2-story
gas, bath, etc., nice Sheridan av., stone
gas, bath, large yard
Boggy st., 2-story brick N. Park place, large bath, hot and cold water
Chouteau av., 3-story
stone brick stable; 1
Bremen av., 2-story
gas, bath, hot and cold
Garrison av., stone-

N. Park place, 2-story modern improvements; Franklin av., 2-story, and all improvements. 134.

Loonst st. 3-story house, a nice order; $60.

Hebert st., 2-story house; 135.

Prairie av., new house; c. liar, yard, etc., 136.

Washington av., 2-story improvements; stable 137.

Ewing av., 2-story house; 138.

Switzer mansion on N. Park, large double house; orchard, etc., 139.

Thomas st., 2 story
bath etc.; $27 0.
N. 9th st., 3-story b
33.
N. 6th st., 3-story b
F
N. 5d st., 2 rooms, 2
N. 5th st., rear, 2 ro
S. Broadway, 3 room
Hebert st., 4 rooms,
6 S. Tenth st., 3-
i kitchen, cellar, etc
i. Third st., rooms o and 34. olive st., see janitor chest corner Third

100 ft.
 Benton st., 4 rooms or Farrar st., 4 rooms.
 Center st., 3 rooms. 21
 a, cellar, etc.; $15.
 STO
 J. Main st., 5-story
 S. Broadway, large
 Commercial st., large
 S. 7th st., 2 large
 Main st., 4-story brick
 Seventh st., second
 Commercial st.; $25
 108, 210 and 212 Old

FOR

Chestnut st., 8 rooms
Chestnut st., 9 rooms
Washington av., 12
Locust st., 8 rooms, 4
Pine st., 11 rooms, 8
N. 12th st., store and Pine st., 10 rooms, 6
81
Commercial, 3-story w
N. Main st., 4-story
Main st., 3-story brick
Collins st., 431
4th st., $350.
12th st., $65,
2d st., $250.
2d st., $120.

5th st.: $40.
 12th st.: $100.
 12th st.: $60.
 3d st.: $25.
 4. Main st.: $20.
 Commercial st., st.
CHAS. H. T

---

FOR John

No. 519 W
19 MORRISON
No. 1625 Hick
36 S. Thirteenth st.
15 S. Cardinal av., 4
9 Tavor av., 8 room
542 Chouteau av., 10
11 Walnut st., 10 room
9 Cedar st., 10 room
9 Bevingdale av., 8
st Eastern av., 8

116 Russell av., 6 rooms
RO
108. Fourth st., 2 rooms
9 Walnut st., 3 rooms
11 Walnut st., 3 rooms
108. Tenth, 2d floor
13th st., 3 rooms 2d
ST
4 Elm st., warehouse
6 Walnut st., small
108. 6th st., store an
108. Second st., 3 stor
2 DeKaib st., with during Franklin av., new 3
and office, new 3

FOR HMEYE
7 N. EIC
DWEL
Salle st., 2-story at

Modern conveniences
Louis av., 2-story
hot and cold water; 1
Walnut st., 2-story
ster st., 2-story dwell order.
ry st., 1-story cottag
re stable.
RC
hard st., 1st floor.
Kath st., 1st floor.
Union st., 3d floor.
W. av., 1st floor. 3 s
STO
Franklin av., large s

CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE
SELECT BARGAINS IN IMPROVED PROPERTY.
Paying 9 to 11 per cent Interest.
	YEARLY RENT.	PRICE.
3021	LACLEDE AV. $1,200.	$11,000.
3023
3028	CHESTNUT ST. $1,800	$10,500.
3030
1411	N. THIRTIETH ST. (new)	$3,100
1413
3131	CASS AV.	$3,050
1725	OHIO AV.	$5,200
3022	CLARK AV.	$4,600
3736	FINNEY AV.	$8,500
2735	LACLEDE AV. $1,200.	$11,000
2737
810	LEFFINGWELL AV. $1,200.	$11,000
2020	CARR ST. $240.....	$4,500
3021	CLARK AV

3023		$1,000 -	$1,200
3020	MANCHESTER
3022	RD.
1905	DIVISION ST. $600....		$4,200
415	N. FIFTH Lot 34127. 2-story building.	$3.00.
2902	MORGAN.....		$10,000
3447	LAKEIDE AV.....		$10,500
2826	DATYON ST.....		$7,200
898	GRATIOS ST.....	$1.00.	$13,000
834	INCLUSIVE.

VADEVENTER PLACE.

An Elegant lot 149x142, North side, east of Cabanne street.

FISHER & CO.

714 Chestnut St.

*BARGAIN if taken soon. Nine lot on Page 9, west of Vandeventer, at $60 per foot. A.G. C37, this office. AS

FOR SALE.

LOTS.

Baker av., near Boyle; 100x210.
Belle av., near Pendleton; 40x100.
Belle av., near Pendleton; 13x100.
Coe hillside, s. e. cor. Sprague; 14x120.
Dexter av., near Sarah; 78x110.
Dexter av., near Pendleton; 20x100.
Evans av., near Taylor av.; 30x110.
Fisher av., near Taylor; 30x110.
Grove av., near Pendleton; 30x110.
Hage av., near Vandeventer; 10x150.
Hage av., near Taylor; 30x110.
Taylor and Fairfax avs.; 50x120.
Washington av. near Grand; 70x227.
Frederick, near Penrose; 20x120.

Apply to

E. B. MILTENBERGER,

804 Chestnut Street.

FOUR SALE—Cabanne st., west side, bet. Pine and Laclache av., 11x121, in lots to suit; will sell cheap.

FOR SALE—A factory brick dwelling, 619 N. Sixth st.

FOR SALE—with good land; will be sold on CREDIT—A HOUSE, 801 N. Eighth st.

FOR SALE—130x110, s. e. cor. of Taylor and Belle avs.; will sell at a sacrifice.

[illegible]

MONEY TO LOAN.
$500, $1000, $2500, $5000 on City and Country real-estate.
JOHN LADD No. 223 Oliver.

